across the Vistula, which had been completely destroyed during the war, had not been rebuilt. This bridge connected Nowy Zjazd with Zygmuntowska Streets. Rather than rebuild the old bridge, a new one was built across the Vistula connecting Korowa and Brukowa Streets. This bridge across the Vistula had been planned during the 30's and is shown as a main East-West thoroughfare in the Land Use Chart and also on the Proposed Network of Roads Chart. In order to make this proposed thoroughfare a reality it would be necessary to either provide a tunnel or a deep cut to negotiate the steep west bank of the river at this point.

3. (a) City Plan of Warsaw showing the relative wartime destruction of different areas. Unfortunately the map was in color and it will be difficult to ascertain the correct gradations.
(b) Aerial photograph of Warsaw taken in 1947, also showing the destruction of the area. Unfortunately this shot was not very clear.
(c) Proposed Land Use Plan for reconstruction. The section at the right is the left part of the aerial photo in picture (b).
(d) This picture includes three charts. One is a Regional Plan of Warsaw, 1939; and the other is a Study of Communications for the metropolitan area.
(e) This picture contains four charts depicting the government's plans for the building of the proposed network of roads, proposed building zones, the proposed network of railroads and the proposed open spaces.
(f) The last picture shows the destruction in the area of Danzig.
